

General Contract Agreement
Final Version

Contract State: This contract shall be governed by the laws of the State of California, USA.

Contract Number: 032019

Project Name: dGlobal@UTEC: Bringing the Stanford Design Innovation Methodology to UTEC

Main Project Objectives: Strengthen UTEC's innovation pedagogy, especially team-and project-based courses, by leveraging and localizing key program elements and practices from the ME310 Global Design Innovation, Stanford University's flagship design innovation program.

Contracting Parties:

This General Contract Agreement is made between IntoActions LLC, San Francisco, USA ('IntoActions'), and Universidad Tecnológica del Uruguay ('UTEC').

Deliverables

1. dGlobal@UTEC Workshop:

- IntoActions will provide an interactive workshop for 20 participants from UTEC, as well as offer additional meetings with workshop teams and members of the larger UTEC community, in Uruguay during the week of March 11-15, 2019. The workshop and other activities will focus on the ME310 Global Design Innovation course, and will specifically address the needs of the workshop participants as they implement a human-centered innovation pedagogy within the local context.

2. dGlobal at Stanford Online Course (DSN300W):

- The dGlobal at Stanford online course is an essential part of the dGlobal@UTEC project. The dGlobal at Stanford online course will be administered by Stanford University, and IntoActions will work with UTEC to facilitate the enrollment of all workshop participants in the dGlobal at Stanford online course. Participants who successfully complete the program will earn an official Stanford University transcript and 1 Unit of Stanford University Continuing Studies credit. The dGlobal at Stanford online course will be led by Reinhold Steinbeck, instructor with the dGlobal at Stanford Program. Content of the dGlobal@UTEC Workshop and the the dGlobal at Stanford online course will be aligned. Support for the Spanish language will be provided.
 - Spring Quarter: April 1 - May 10, 2019
